User Story 1: Email

As a project manager I want to export the Gantt chart directly to all project collaborators' email so it's easier for everyone to access it.

Context:
The user would be allowed to export the gantt chart, that he is working on, attached into an email, in order to send it to all the co-workers involved in the project.

User Story 2: Trash

As a Gantt Project user I want to restore previously deleted tasks so that we can avoid remaking complex tasks that we actually need.

Context:
The user, instead of permanently eliminating a task, the task will be removed from the list and relocated into a new window named trash. In this new window, the user would be able to delete permanently the task in them or recover them, moving them into the original place, if possible.
